

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

When you visit the South Carolina Aquarium, you will meet many people that work here. When you visit, you will see that Aquarium workers wear blue shirts, tan pants and a name badge. When you visit, Aquarium workers will wave and smile.

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Aquarium workers are here to keep you safe. Aquarium workers carry radios to talk to each other.

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Aquarium workers are here to answer your questions.

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Aquarium workers are here to take care of the animals.

When Aquarium workers take care of animals, they clean their tanks, feed them, watch their behavior and teach about them.

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Some Aquarium workers work behind desks.

Some Aquarium workers sell things in the gift shop or the snack shop.

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Some Aquarium workers carry animals like turtles for you to touch.

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Some Aquarium workers work at the Touch Tank and will help you safely touch animals like sea stars.

South Carolina
Aquarium

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Some Aquarium workers stand in front of tanks to answer your questions. They are happy to answer any question about the Aquarium and the animals!

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

Some Aquarium workers wear scuba gear to clean the tanks. They have on flippers, a mask, a wet suit, a vest and a tank of oxygen on their backs. They are called scuba divers.

The scuba divers may look different, but they wear all their gear so they can swim underwater, clean the tank and feed the fish. And they are very friendly!

Aquarium Workers

Aquarium Stories

When you visit the South Carolina Aquarium, you will meet many Aquarium workers. All of them are nice and here to help you explore the Aquarium!